

Many woes paraded before appeal board

Seventeen persons spoke, Tuesday evening in the Herbert C. Barrows Auditorium, against allowing low and moderate income housing off Woburn Street, down by the Ipswich River. A crowd of about 200 applauded them, warmly.

The appeal board was hearing the second session of the appeal of the Tambone Corporation of Reading to erect housing under the provisions of Chapter 774 of the Acts of 1969 - the so-called snob zoning law.

Some of the speeches were very fine - well thought out. Unfortunately they generally had nothing to do with the case, for the snob zoning law carefully instructs the appeals board on the type of evidence that may be heard. The woes of a municipality, the debts, the water problems, the over-crowding of schools, etc. have no bearing on a snob zoning appeal.

There was one more person who spoke - Arnold C. Blake, water commissioner. Mr. Blake told the appeal board, and the audience, that he was one of four Wilmington residents who had taken a tour of some places built as does the Tambone Corporation want to build in Wilmington.

"You don't know what you are talking about" he told the audience. He said that he would not hesitate to pay $400 a month to live in one of the places constructed under the provisions of Chapter 774. They were, he said, "the finest type of developments - and I have seen many developments."

There wasn't much applause for Mr. Blake.

One of the better speeches was the first one - by Francis Ottati, newly elected to the school committee. Mr. Ottati had his facts well marshalled.

The school department, Ottati said, estimates that there will be 200 school children in the proposed apartments, after a count of the number of three bedroom apartments (34) and four bedroom apartments (12).

Wilmington spends, he said, 77¢ of its tax dollar on students. There are 1500 senior citizens, and 350 families on welfare.

The tax base has been expanding very slowly, during the past three years. At the present time the home owners pay 45% of the taxes, and business pays 55%. Sixty per cent of the homes in Wilmington pay less than the national average, in taxes.

Two hundred students, Ottati said, would cost the town $226,000 a year. He understood that the estimated taxes on the project was $100,000 a year. (It was stated, in the first session of the hearing, to be estimated at $200,000. Ed.)

"you and I will make up the difference" said Ottati. "The problem is that we have to attract business income. We have no empty class rooms. We have a high school built for 900, and it houses 1400."

"To superimpose several hundred pupils in, on an already overcrowded school system will overload an already overloaded system."

"I believe in retaining local control, and local options."

Mr. Ottati was warmly applauded.

Town Manager Sterling Morris and Selectman James Miceli attacked the correspondence of the Tambone Corporation and the Massachusetts Housing Finance Agency, which is the organization that approves of 774 housing, and makes the loans for construction.

Morris described as "undesirable," low income housing, and said it was "subsidized by the taxpayers." He had written to the MHFA he said, about site approval, and there wasn't any.

Miceli also spoke of site approval. On March 24 the firm had not completed its approval for the site, he said with the MHFA.

Christian Bachman, finance committee chairman, looking much improved after his long seige in the hospital had seven points, in a two page letter. The increased taxes, he said, would not offset the increased financial burden.

He asked what would happen should the developer default, and who would be responsible for maintenance.

He wondered if there were sufficient funds in the Massachusetts funding for this project and for the Wilmington Housing Authority.

He asked questions about the sewer line, and about Woburn Street traffic, and the projected increase of traffic to the Woburn Street School. He pointed out that non-skilled jobs were not plentiful, and that public transportation to the site was non-existent.

his final statement was that he believed there was a better use for MHFA money.

Phyllis Ritchie presented a petition with signatures of over 1000 residents, opposed to Candlewood Village. She asked questions about the water supply, said Woburn Street was inadequate, and school

2 OBITUARIES

Rev. Martin dies unexpectedly

The Rev. Paul T. Martin, 67, associate minister at Tewksbury Congregational Church, died unexpectedly at his home in Arlington at 3 Chapman St. Thursday, March 20.

A memorial service in Mr. Martin's memory is planned at Tewksbury Congregational Church Sunday, April 6, at 4 p.m. The church is also collecting gifts for a fund to be used to buy a memorial to Mr. Martin in Tewksbury. Bangor Theological Seminary in Bangor, Maine, is also receiving gifts in his memory.

Mr. Martin was always interested in counselling members of his congregations, and took on those duties and other ministerial functions several days a week in Tewksbury.

In something of a reversal of normal roles, Mr. Martin counselled older members of the congregation while Mr. Williams dealt much with younger persons.

Born in Bangor, Maine, Nov. 12, 1907, Mr. Martin was the son of a Congregational minister who

The Rev. Paul T. Martin taught theology at Bangor Seminary.

He was a 1925 graduate of Bangor High School, a 1926 graduate of Moses Brown Preparatory School in Providence, R.I., in 1926, a 1930 graduate of Havarford College in Havarford, Pa., and a 1934 graduate of Harvard Divinity School.

In 1940 he married the former Lois Wright, a teacher at Arlington High School and Cambridge resident whom he had known since his Harvard days.

Mr. Martin said in an interview with the Town Crier, "I was a starving student, and we met at the home of some friends I'd known from Maine. If she had married me in those days, she couldn't have gone on teaching, so it wasn't until I got a reasonable salary that we were able to afford to get married."

After two decades at Exeter, Mr. Martin joined the staff of Manhasset Congregational Church in Manchester, Long Island, in 1956.

In 1959 he became pastor of Wenham Congregational Church in Wenham, Mass., and served as a staff minister at Central Congregational Church in Providence, R.I., from 1967 until his retirement in December 1973.

Even before his retirement, Mr. Martin agreed to become associate minister at Tewksbury Congregational at the request of the pastor, the Rev. David C. Williams.

In addition to his widow, he is survived by a son, John Martin of East Walpole; a daughter, Margaret of Rochester, N.Y., and a granddaughter, Sarah Elizabeth Martin.

A funeral was held for him Sunday, March 23, at Central Congregational Church in Providence, R.I.

Rep. Tsongas, Pres. Olsen announce nuclear debate

U.S. Rep. Paul Tsongas and Lowell Technological Institute President Everett V. Olson have invited the citizens of Wilmington to attend a Nuclear Debate at Lowell Tech, April 1 at 8 p.m.

Tsongas and Olsen cited the need to establish a dialogue on the vital question of nuclear energy, in announcing the debate between four prominent nuclear scientists. Congressman Tsongas will act as moderator.

The nuclear scientists favoring the use of nuclear power plants will be Dr. Joseph Turnage of New England Electric and Dr. Ian Forbes, chairman of the LTI Department of Nuclear Engineering. Forbes received national attention last year after challenging Ralph Nader to a televised debate on nuclear energy. Forbes accused Nader of using scare tactics on the issue.

Opposed to further nuclear power plant expansion will be Dr. James MacKensie, chairman of the Union of Concerned Scientists and an Audubon Society staff scientist; and Daniel Ford, executive director of the Union of Concerned Scientists. Ford led the move to shut down the Pilgrim nuclear power plant in Plymouth due to potential reactor leakage.

Tsongas said the forum "will serve as a model in an attempt to establish a public dialogue on the future of nuclear energy." The Fifth District Democrat has been asked by Rep. Morris Udall (D-Ariz.), chairman of the Energy and Environment Subcommittee, to look into establishing a format that the Subcommittee could utilize to focus additional attention on the nuclear question. Tsongas is a member of the Energy and Environment Subcommittee.

Projections are that 50 per cent of our electricity may be supplied by nuclear generation by the year 2000," Tsongas stated. "We must be positive that this means of production is absolutely safe. Serious questions have been raised on the possibility of nuclear materials falling into terrorist hands, about the disposal of nuclear waste, and on the transportation of radioactive substances." Tsongas will report back to Udall and the Subcommittee on the LTI debate.

In making the joint announcement, Lowell Tech President Olsen said the school welcomed the opportunity to host the debate. "An educational institution which possesses a nuclear reactor and offers a course in nuclear engineering has an obligation to focus attention on this subject. We interpret this obligation to mean that at Lowell Tech, all sides of the nuclear issue should be expressed." Olsen noted that LIT would be the site of an "International Nuclear Conference" in July of 1976. "The co-sponsorship of this debate is another opportunity for Lowell Tech to play a role in the determination of the future uses of nuclear power," Olsen concluded.

Rep. Tsongas and President Olsen have issued an invitation to the public from throughout the Fifth Congressional District and the Boston area to attend the debate. Olsen predicted that the debate would be "fiery and quite productive for the audience." As moderator, Tsongas said he would steer the panelists toward the question of the risks and benefits of nuclear power expansion and away from a purely academic or technical discussion.

LETTER

Dear Larz,

I would like to comment on Tuesday night's Board of Appeals hearing concerning Candlewood Village, the Tambone Corporation's low income housing development planned for Wilmington.

Many of our town boards were represented at this hearing; namely the Board of Selectmen, Finance Committee, Fire Department, Town Manager, and a citizen's group called 'Citizen's for Home Rule'.

Each of these groups read statements indicating that this particular housing development was not designed in the best interests of the town, and urged the Board of Appeals to turn down Candlewood Village. The citizen's group submitted a petition containing 1,000 signatures protesting the building of 276 units on Woburn Street.

There are many reasons why these groups oppose Candlewood Village, but one of the most important to me is the tax impact which such a development will impose on those of us who already own homes in Wilmington, many after years of saving to escape a city environment.

The people who will occupy these 1, 2, 3 and 4 bedroom units will, by necessity, demand increased police protection, updating existing fire equipment and personnel, schooling for some 200 children, sidewalks, street lights, sewerage, garbage and rubbish disposal, recreation facilities, etc. There is no way to recover federal or state funds for supplementing these services. The only way to pay for them is by increasing our taxes.

Traffic in the Woburn and Concord St. areas will greatly increase. If an emergency road is to be provided to the site, the town will be responsible for constructing it. (more tax dollars!)

The representative of the Tambone corporation paints a very rosy picture indeed;

however, at this early stage of acquiring financing from the MHFA (Mass Housing Finance Agency), and approval from the DCA (Dept. of Community Affairs) they have filed only preliminary plans. Perhaps when some of the technicalities, such as an environmental assessment, drainage and sewerage plans have been investigated the Tambone corporation will be better prepared to answer some of the more specific questions directed to them at last night's hearing.

Mr. Wishcamper, speaking for the Tambone Corp. offered to let the Wilmington Housing Authority or any other community based committee act as a screening agent by maintaining a waiting list of low and moderate income families. The implication was that first preference will be given to Wilmington residents.

Representatives of the MHFA and DCA have indicated that in a federally subsidized housing development admission is open to anyone, on the basis of need and meeting financial requirements. Favoring Wilmington residents would be classified as an act of discrimination. We have no guarantee of first preference.

Mr. Wishcamper also indicated that many towns were "proud" to have MHFA subsidized housing. I understand that twenty-three towns have refused such projects; and have appealed to the State Housing Appeals Committee for a ruling. Wilmington can appeal too! I sincerely hope that the members of our Board of Appeals respond to the wishes of the Town committees and the citizens of Wilmington, and refuse to allow this project to be built. Interested citizens should contact the members of the Board of Appeals and air their views on this subject.

Sincerely,
Christine Briand

Shawsheen Tech students save tax dollars

Last year, carpentry and electrical students of Shawsheen Valley Technical High School saved thousands of tax dollars for Burlington residents by renovating the Center School into administrative offices.

While the town appropriated money for materials, the labor for the huge undertaking was provided free of charge by students who completed the job as a class project in less than a year.

Shawsheen Tech students continue to save tax dollars for citizens in the five towns by manufacturing equipment, desks, shelving and tables for use within the facility.

As voke-ed administrators prepare for the opening of the school's expansion in September, students in various shops are already involved in projects to provide equipment for the expansion.

Anthony R. Bazzinotti, technical coordinator for the school has reported that carpentry students are currently making benches for cosmetology, a new course being offered in the addition. Wooden storage cabinets are also being built by students for the science and chemical labs; lecturns for academic classrooms; drafting tables; racks for drafting drawing boards; magazine and book racks; and bookcases. Carpentry students will be involved in sanding and refurbishing of desks in commercial art and metal fab classrooms.

Electrical students are actively involved in wiring workbenches for the cosmetology department. They are also wiring benches in electronics and will work on remote control switches for garage doors in automotive and auto shops.

Assisting drafting students in the design and production of a school map for use as a directory, are students in commercial and technical illustrating. Metal fab students are finishing up construction on metal storage cabinets for audio visual equipment and engine-transmission stands for use in shop and classrooms throughout the building.

According to Bazzinotti, the drafting department is also designing all blueprints and plans for shop projects. "All year long, our students in the machine shop work to repair and manufacture all replacement parts throughout the building," he said, adding "this gives them valuable hands on experience and demonstrates to them the on-going worthwhile use of their projects."

In automotive and auto body shops, instructors James Mullen and Maurice Trembley supervise students in maintaining all school vehicles.

In other areas, the printing department students print and publish all pamphlets and other materials for distribution within the school including letterhead, forms, and a student newspaper.

MAILLET WILL BE the DIFFERENCE

THESE ARE SOME OF THE PROGRAMS THAT

RAY MAILLET
WOULD INTRODUCE AS TOWN CLERK

COMPUTER

We already have in our school department, modern, up to date processing equipment. This could and should be used to store and make available, as it is needed, the information vital to the efficient operation of our town.

MICROFILM

The cost of Micro-Filming is very low, yet, the advantages are many. Records could be stored while taking up less than 2% of the space presently required.

Information on town documents would be more readily available to town residents, the chance of losing, misplacing, or damaging records would be greatly reduced, and the disaster caused by fire would be avoided.

VOTER REGISTRATION

Greater efforts must be made to register the new citizens of the community, and the eighteen year old voter. Registration should become more mobile. Go out into the neighborhoods for those who find it difficult to go to the Town Hall, such as the elderly, students, and others.

METHOD OF VOTING

A Study Committee should be formed, to evaluate other methods of voting as opposed to the paper ballot, and to determine whether substantial long range savings could be realized and quicker more accurate results obtained.

HOURS

The Town Clerk must make himself available at hours convenient to those who require his services.

COST

Not only would these programs improve the services you now receive, but they would result in a considerable cost reduction.

French wines were not to his liking, he found French bread, called "Baguettes" to be absolutely delicious.

Bob is currently enrolled as a senior at Hamilton College, in Clinton, New York, where this past fall semester he received High Honors. He has majored in French and German, while at Hamilton, and hopes, this fall, to enter Harvard University Graduate School for work toward a PhD in Educational Administration.

Stop smoking course at N.E. Memorial

"I've smoked all my life; it won't do any good to stop now." How often have you heard, or perhaps said, that?

Well, it is not true, according to Walter E. Kloss, Director of the Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking at the New England Memorial Hospital in Stoneham.

Helping people break out of their "nicotine trap" is the primary goal of the Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking which is slated to start Sunday, March 30, at 7:30 p.m. and will end Thursday, April 3. The Plan will be held in the New England Memorial Hospital auditorium.

Each night at 7:30, Sunday through Thursday, Walter Kloss will team up with NEMH staff physicians to stress how the craving for cigarettes can be lessened, how will power can be strengthened, the damaging physical effects of smoking, the importance of calm nerves and other helpful techniques for "kicking the habit."

Kloss states there are two dimensions to quitting the habit - the physical and the psychological. "You need a positive attitude toward quitting, rather than a sacrificial one," says Kloss.

"Convince yourself that you are defeating your worst enemy - one which can take you to your grave."

Stopping smoking, Kloss says, significantly cuts the risk of early death, even for persons middle-aged or older who have smoked all their lives.

The plan utilizes no "gimmicks" - but stresses high fluid intake (no alcohol), adequate rest, plenty of fresh air, a conscious disruption of habit patterns which beckon you to pick up a cigarette and a "buddy system" which is designed to give moral support whenever you are tempted to smoke another cigarette.

Literally thousands of smokers have found this plan to be a success in their campaigns against the habit and are now leading healthy, nicotine-free lives. Not only will quitting the smoking habit make you feel better and live longer, but food will taste better and many dollars can be saved in this era of run-away costs.

For those who are serious about giving up their tobacco habit, the Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking offers expert assistance and instruction - and, in fact, a whole new way of life - and breath.

For more information call 665-1740, Ext. 426. The cost for this Five-Day Plan is five dollars.

Mite B (18-7-2): The B's defeated league leading South Boston by a score of 4-2. It was the second consecutive time that the B's have defeated Southie and it accounts for South Boston's only losses of the season.

David Fuller opened the scoring at 8:58 of the first period on a beautiful backhand shot assisted by David Richards. Defensemen Robby Palmer, Eric Marshall, Robbie Walden and David Buzzell kept the defensive pressure on the opponents until Southie tied the game with 4:43 remaining in the second period.

Ten seconds later David Richard broke South Boston's back on a well executed tip-in shot from a pass by left wing John Roginson. Stephen Raso and Peter Oikle's hustle and backchecking then contained Southie until Greg Rogers gave the B's a two goal lead assisted by Kenny Richter as the second period came to a close.

South Boston made the game 3-2 midway through the final frame. Jimmy Taylor's full ice shot narrowly missed the open net as Southie pulled their goalie with over four minutes remaining in the game. John Robinson quickly followed with the fourth and final goal as he split the open net assisted by Eric Marshall. Eric Berger's puck handling and board work combined with some outstanding plays by defensemen Keith Dunnett and Dean Colarusso contained Southie for the remainder of the game.

Goalie Brian Surette made some timely saves as he finished the regular season posting a 1.37 goals against average.

The first play-off game will be played next Saturday against Billerica at 9:10 a.m.

Squirt B II: The team came from behind to tie a strong Burlington team 5-5 on Sunday. Lane Fraser tipped in the tying goal with about one minute left in the game, assisted by Brian MacLellan.

Other goal scorers were Mark Johnson, Craig Richards and Eddie Olson, on a booming slap-shot from his point position. Richie Carbone and Peter Gentile shared goal tending duties for the B-II's, turning away and stopping many hard shots by Burlington.

Billy Barrett forcechecked sensationally, coming up with the puck several times with great determination. The defensive work of Olson, O'Reilly, Cahill, Sullivan and Larson kept the Burlington forwards off balance.

Wilmington wings, Taylor, Fraser, Richards, Johnson and Barrett, along with hustling centers, Brian MacLellan and Richard McHugh kept constant pressure on the Burlington goalie for the entire game.

Assisting on the goals four Wilmington were Olson, McHugh, Johnson, Richards and MacLellan (two).

Squirt B I (22-4-1): The BI's lost a heartbreaker to South Boston in a make-up game on Saturday by a score of 5-3. Southie scored first in period one, but Wilmington tied it up nine seconds into the second frame.

Ed Harding took a pass, at the goal mouth from Jeff Brown and scored. Southie broke the game open in the second period with four goals. Bob Magliozzi and Bobby O'Connell rebounded for two third period goals with assists to John Robson, Ed Harding and Bob Magliozzi, but time ran out on the BI's before they could catch Southie.

On Sunday, March 23, the BI's, a little mad with their play against South Boston, took out their vengeance on a strong Haverhill team by blowing them off the ice by a score of 6-1. Ray Durling scored twice at 10:23 and 9:57 of period one to put the game away. Ed Harding, Robby O'Connell and John Palmer each had an assist.

Following a Haverhill score early in period two the BI's overwhelmed their opposition with four unanswered goals. Bob Magliozzi (one), John Robson (2), Robbie O'Connell (one), John LaLibertie (one) and Ray Durling (one).

Goalie Bill Redler had an easy afternoon stopping 10 of 11 shots as the defense kept the Haverhill skaters away from the Wilmington net.

INTRAMURAL NOTES

The results of the Intramural League action during the weekend of March 21 were as follows:

Bantams

Coming from behind the Bruins subdued the Canadiens by the tune of 3-2 in a close and well played game; meanwhile the Rangers scored a 7-3 triumph over the screaming Hawks.

Squirts

Coupling excellent goaltending and defensive play with an outstanding offensive effort the Braves shutout the Aces 7-0 and scored their second consecutive Squirt division championship; while the Clippers retained third place with a 2-1 victory over the Bears.

Mites

With a 3-0 shutout over the Buckaroos the Gulls continued their winning ways. The speedy Roadrunners won their second in a row with a 6-4 victory over the Blades while the Blazers took a 1-0 triumph from the Checkers.

The BI's play their last regular game against Medford next Sunday and finish their season two weeks later following two play-off games against the East Division.

Pee Wee BI (16-4-7): Last Saturday, the Pee Wee BI's hosted Somerville and took a 2-0 win. Keith Ford opened the scoring at 3:10 of Period I with an unassisted goal high off the goalie's glove hand.

The lone score of period two was by Mark Potenza following a rush up right wing who beat the goalie on his gloveside with a quick snap shot from 30 feet. Assists went to Mark LaLibertie and Bob Lowney.

The BI's are now 16-4-7 and will play Cambridge next, on Tuesday April 1 at 6:10 p.m.

GREG ROGERS: Is about to score Wilmington's third goal on a nice pass from Kenny Richter.

STEVE RASO'S: Scoring bid is foiled by South Boston's goalie as Greg Rogers moves in for a possible rebound. The Mite B's handed Southie their second loss 4-2.

Rec hoop season nears close

Wilmington Recreation Basketball

With the final round of games this week the Wilmington Recreation Basketball season comes to an end. The only basketball to be played at the high school gym in the next week will be the fifth annual hoop tourney.

Tue. Mar. 18... The Crows moved into a tie for the runner-up spot in the Intermediate Boy's sector with a convincing 18-9 triumph over the Ravens. Todd Driscoll led the winners scoring parade tossing in 10 points, while Eddie Harding chipped in with six. Scott Braliska led the Ravens with four.

In a junior boy's clash, the Bulls trampled the Lions, 48-24 behind a balanced scoring attack led by Matt Kmon's 14 points. Dave Ballou, Brian Delfino and Chris Briggs chipped in with eight points each for the winners. Doug Fearling tossed in eight points to lead the Lions.

In the lone men's encounter scheduled, Cold Storage slipped past Analog, 64-61 with some clutch free throw shooting. The Storage quintet hit on 12 of 20 charity tosses, while Analog made only seven of 22 tries and there lies the difference. Dick Gillis and Tony Butler tossed in 16 and 14 points respectively to lead the victors. Doug Smith took game high scoring honors pumping in 23 for the winless Device club.

Thurs. Mar. 20... In a battle of divisional leaders, the Elks whipped the Chargers, 63-37. Scott Nolan tallied 20 points for the undefeated Elks, while Sal Carbone chipped in with 13 and Dave DeLisle, Roy White and Ricky Lunnetta each scoree eight. Rick Dowd and Marty Sullivan the chargers with 13 and nine points respectively.

Wilmington Ford nipped Newhouse, 98-96 in three overtimes to create a tie for fourth place in the men's loop. The game was close all the way as the Ford unit led 11-10, 30-28 at the first and second period marks, while Newhouse forged out in front 50-49 at the end of the third frame. Jim Maxwell took game high scoring honors tossing in 29 points, scoring 12 in the overtime sessions for Ford, while teammate Jeff Sheerin hooped a seasonal high 20. Pat Simmons tallied 26 for Newhouse and Larry Bowlby added 21, but it wasn't enough.

In the other game, Super-Stars jumped out to a 26-8 lead in the first period over the Lucky Ducks enroute to a convincing 98-66 triumph over the green and gold quintet. Gene DiSarcina and Tom Beaton led a well balanced Stars attack tossing in 16 and 17 points respectively. George Pratt tossed in 19 for the Ducks, while Ed Harrison added 19.

NEW INVENTION
THE PERIMITECTOR

Nationwide Scientific, the nation's leader in line-carrier (ac transmission) alarm equipment was recently awarded a U.L. listing for the new PERIMITECTOR alarm system. This unique system provides perimeter protection that scares off intruders before they set foot inside. The PERIMITECTOR will provide professional security for the first time at an extremely low price by eliminating internal wiring and large labor bills. This new concept is achieved by transmitting the violation signal over the buildings existing a-c wiring through new plug-in transmitter-receiver modules. Result - an extremely effective very low cost alarm system for home or business that accepts all fire and burglar alarm detection devices available.

When your turn signals don't function, the result can often be dangerous. The driver behind you is often not looking for hand signals, as he's more prepared to notice a flashing light. Putting your hand out your window in cold or wet weather can be as awkward as it is dangerous.

A little common sense maintenance will make your turn signals last longer. Remember that salt and moisture can eat away the lamp housings and make bulb sockets inoperative. Remove the lenses occasionally and check for corrosion.

Health Center finances

Several weeks ago there appeared in the Town Crier a public announcement or Financial Statement, relative to the Regional Health Center, in Wilmington. It showed, among other things, that the Center spent $13,886.98 more than it received, during the fiscal year. There are those who have wondered why.

Larry Chapman, the Executive Director, says: "If I looked at an organization's financial statement and saw that kind of deficit it would start me thinking. My next question would be...Is there a legitimate reason for the deficit?"

The Health Center is not yet providing any services, so it receives no revenue from operating, only from donations. The cost now exceeds the revenue because the project is now being started.

Cost associated with architects, state filing fees, and the running of an office are all going to be high, when any new project is started.

"Our formal fund raising," Chapman says "has been delayed because we have some $2,428,676 in grant requests, from public and private sources, that are now pending. In order to submit some of the grants the Health Center has to pay for some items of development."

"The Board of Directors is trying to get as much money as possible from outside sources so that area residents, business and industry will not have to pay as much. Unfortunately the Health Center is being penalized by going trapped into the timetables of other public and private organizations."

"The complexity of the whole project is almost overwhelming. The variety of governmental agencies, financing organizations, regulatory bodies, etc. is enough to curl your hair. In the meantime the Health Center Board agonizes over every cent it spends."

"In summary, the Health Center has to spend more money than it makes right now, because we are being forced to develop at a faster rate than our revenues coming in would pay for. If the Health Center cuts back the spending to keep pace with the donations, then it would not develop fast enough to keep the approval of the project that has already been received by the state."

"The Health Center, of course, owes its existence to the many individuals who have contributed money, over the years. This source of support is particularly vital, right now. The entire amount contributed to date (about $80,000) is less than 2% of what is needed to build, equip and open the Health Center."

"We are very much in need of your support, and everyone associated with the Health Center is doing the best he or she can, to bring a new community health care facility to the area."

Cable TV rate increase asked

The Burlington selectmen have received an appeal for an increase in rates for the services of the TV Cable station in Woburn, the same station that services some streets in Wilmington.

A year ago the Burlington selectmen twice turned down a petition for a 30 per cent increase. Approximately one half of Burlington is serviced by the company, and the selectmen of that town are seeking 100 per cent service.

New books at Wilmington Library

Lemons Never Lie by Richard Stark has one of the greatest triple-twist resolutions of recent fiction. Considered Stark's best book, it is relentlessly exciting and full of the actions of a lovable yet dangerous criminal.

Salute the Toff by John Creasey presents an investigation by the Toff, legendary among London's private detectives, of the sudden disappearance of an apparently quiet businessman. The search leads to a gang who feel that corpses are infinitely more manageable than inquisitive strangers.

Man in the Sopwith Camel by Michael Butterworth is an offbeat and very funny caper in which reality and fantasy become gloriously intertwined. The hero impersonates a bank manager and absconds with a fortune to a South Sea island.

NEW INVENTION THE PERIMITECTOR

Nationwide Scientific, the nation's leader in line-carrier (ac transmission) alarm equipment was recently awarded a U.L. listing for the new PERIMITECTOR alarm system. This unique system provides perimeter protection that scares-off intruders before they set foot inside. The PERIMITECTOR will provide professional security for the first time at an extremely low price by eliminating internal wiring and large labor bills. This new concept is achieved by transmitting the violation signal over the buildings existing a-c wiring through new plug-in transmitter-receiver modules. Result - an extremely effective very low cost alarm system for home or business that accepts all fire and burglar alarm detection devices available.

N.E. Memorial weight control workshops

Looking for ways to save money, but at the same time feel better?

The New England Memorial Hospital in Stoneham has a suggestion for you - lose weight (if you need to) and exercise daily. Not only will you feel better physically, mentally and emotionally, but it'll keep more of those hard-earned dollars in your pocket.

To aid those interested in shedding some pounds, the NEMH Health Education Department will offer three, ten-weight Weight Control Workshops starting in April.

"The demand for Weight Control Workshops has been so overwhelming," says Robert Stotz, Health Education Director. "That we're expanding the program to offer Greater Boston area residents a choice of three programs, all at different times of the day."

For those who prefer afternoon sessions (each class lasts approximately one hour), there are two to choose from: one class meets on Monday afternoons at 2:30 and the other at 2:30 on Tuesday afternoons. The third class meets Wednesday nights at 7:30.

Main points of emphasis throughout the course will be good basic nutrition and eating habits, exercise and motivation. Each class member will be "weighed in" weekly, and he may follow his weight reduction progress privately on his personal graph.

Dietitians, physicians, a physical therapist and other qualified persons will speak to the "weight watchers" during the ten weeks, endeavoring to help and encourage them by sharing facts, suggestions and guidelines. A question and answer period will be held after each presentation.

To register for any one of the three Weight Control Workshops being offered in April, call Robert Stotz, Director of Health Education at 665-1740, Ext. 426. There is a $25 registration fee for this workshop, and advance registration is required.

Many woes

facilities were inadequate. She questioned police protection, and fire protection, and declared there would have to be a new firehouse and a new ladder truck for the fire department.

Her presentation was among the highlights of the evening.

Anne Mahoney wanted to know about the ownership of the land. Joe Wishcamper of Tambone Inc. said that 23 of the 28 acres are owned, and four acres in the center are under option.

Daniel Gillis, chairman of the selectmen, declared, among other things that the mixing of three types of income had been proven not to work, in other parts of the state.

Bob McCabe drew attention to Woburn Street, a very busy street he described it. The exit would be across from his home, and he drew attention to a large area further east, on the map, about which not much had been said.

Miceli described the board of appeals as "a good board of appeals" and that there were over 1000 names on the petition. "I hope you are going to do the right thing and vote against it."

He described the project as "another dictate from the Commonwealth of Massachusetts - let's keep it a small town - that's why we are here!"

John Graney said the trash problem would be "monumental" with 200 apartments. An exchange between Attorney Courtney and the chairman resulted in a statement that trash would be cared for by a private contractor.

Vic Connors told how he had moved into Wilmington sixteen years ago, after saving for 20 years. He bought his home on the assumption that he was losing crowded conditions.

He was caustic about the politicians of Beacon Hill, whom he described as living on three acre estates with glass on the walls.

Connors described American Park and Neptune Park, in Lynn. They look, he said "like Stalingrad."

Speaking of one of those places, Connors said there are now 60 "survivors," and the Lynn Police are very very busy. His descriptions were quite vivid, and described himself as "very much against this."

Nancy Bodenstien was another who spoke against. She said the snob zoning law had been designed, she understood, "for the affluent communities."

After Arnold Blake had spoken of what he had seen Peter Simmons compared the project to Columbia Point, in Boston. Blake said it was not so. Another who brought up Columbia Point was Richard Zuccaro, who ended up by describing a sanitary problem. He was told by the chairman to sit down.

Bob Cassidy was another who spoke. Everything that everyone had said was true, he declared. He described a development which the state now owns and in which there are many cases of break and entry.

The last principal speaker was Madelyn McKie. She wanted to know if the MHFA had minimum standards, how many people to a bedroom, if there would be troubles in getting the effluent into the MDC sewers. She described two brooks, on the land, flowing into the Ipswich and wanted to know about the plans for those brooks.

She was answered, in part, by Joe Wishcamper, who told her that there was no minimum for bedrooms, but that the maximum was two persons, and no more than two children to a bedroom, nor more than one child per bedroom unless of the same sex. There could be, he said, six to eight persons in a four bedroom apartment. Speaking of the effluent problem, Mr. Wishcamper said he would be very happy to research it further. The present proposals, before the MHFA, were not final - not definitive, but preparatory, to be more worked out in later stages.

CHRIS BACHMAN
Chairman of Finance Committee

Proponents speak

Joe Wishcamper, vice president of the Tambone Corporation, and Attorney Joseph Courtney represented the proponents statements, in the second half of the hearing. Mr. Wishcamper spoke for half an hour, and Courtney for eight minutes.

Wishcamper said it was important to realize, in discussing public housing developments, that there are apples and oranges.

There have been 30 or 40 years of housing developments, and many of those developments have not worked out well.

The developments under the MHFA have no relationships whatsoever to such public projects as Columbia Point, and Neptune Park. He noted that there had been testimony about pig roasts and addicts, but that this testimony had no relationship to the type of project being planned.

The projects being developed at this time are in a program that is eight years old, and it has been an extremely successful program. Cities and towns with housing projects sponsored by the Massachusetts Housing Finance Agency are proud to have them.

The federally assisted programs are different programs, with inadequate funding.

On the other hand the budget for this type of housing is typically luxurious. Only 80 units will be in the low income category.

The salaries of the medium income tenants will be in the $13 - $14 thousand class. The 25% of tenants who will be in the low income can earn up to $7700 a year, and the 25% that will remain, will have no restriction on their income.

Wilmington, by the 1970 census, had 4066 families he said. Thirty-five per cent of those were qualified as being under $11,000 a year - and thus can qualify for medium income homes in this development.

Only the MHFA regulations are applicable, for eligibility. There are no state taxpayers' funds involved. There are bonds, which do not cost the taxpayer anything.

Referring to Woburn Street traffic, which had been brought up several times, Wishcamper said that there would be 350 parking spaces on the project, with spaces for 1 1/2 cars per unit. He declared that there would be no intensive traffic conditions. If every car left the project between 7 and 8:30 a.m. there would be only four cars per minute.

Traffic problems, Wishcamper said, are industrial - when everyone leaves a plant at 4:30 p.m.

The road to Woburn Street would be a divided lane, in the development. The five acres (at the northerly end) near Concord Street would not be for any roads, except possibly emergency vehicles.

the other land which was spoken of, easterly of the project, consists of eight acres - or 16 homes, if developed. It has no right to 774 housing, and very little chance of that.

To the remarks of no more space in the school system, Wishcamper said, that like any other town, Wilmington will have to expand its school system, and that this project is going to be paying in taxes, a tremendous sum of money, per acre.

Wilmington people, he declares, will be selected for the development. "We believe most of the school children will be of Wilmington, - when the families get into the development."

The State Judicial Supreme Court, Wishcamper said, has ruled that the school system is not a relevant question. "If this board or any other board of appeals decides on school impact the decision is not valid."

Wishcamper said a Wilmington committee could keep the housing for Wilmington people. A Tenant Selection Committee would be free to choose the tenants. Tambone would be willing to recognize a committee to retain selection of the low and moderate income tenants.

The firm is willing to allow the Wilmington Housing Authority or a committee to be appointed by the board of appeals, for the life of the development.

"It is our intention that this be a Wilmington development."

Courtney

Attorney Courtney pointed out that this project is not a Columbia Point, or a Pruitt-Igoe development. "This is not to be a ghetto - it is not to be a racial opposite."

It is, Courtney declared, a place that will provide housing for families of mixed income to live on the same basis. As such it will be, in effect, self policing in that families who do not conform will not remain.

Someone, Courtney said, had asked about shopping facilities for the elderly. There will be a minibus for the elderly.

Someone else, he noted, had brought up the question of a default. That would be for the MHFA to take over, a legal agency. It was an event that was not likely to happen.

"What is being proposed" Courtney declared "represents change. Tomorrow has become today. I can only repeat what has been said - this is a good proposal, well financed."

Courtney revealed that the proposed six story building for the elderly housing is now to be a five story building, with a part of it to be a three story building.

Recess

There was a nineteen minute recess. Then Courtney and Wishcamper had direct questions from the board.

Wishcamper said that one floor in the elderly housing had been eliminated, and the maximum height was not forty-five feet. The lowering had been made because of fire department objections.

The construction of the streets within the project would conform to the subdivision regulations of Wilmington.

There was a considerable conversation between Wishcamper and the chairman relative to the height of the building with elderly housing. Wishcamper said they believed a lower building would be undesirable. He described the water mains for fire purposes and other facilities, and discussed buildings for the elderly in Woburn, Arlington, Malden and Melrose.

To sum up he declared they had found that the elderly prefer a building with an elevator, rather than to walk up two stories.

In discussing rents, Wishcamper said that every year the developer has to submit a statement to the MHFA showing costs, and that the MHFA then determines what the rents will be.

The board of appeals, in discussing materials, was told "your board is free to retain power to approve or disapprove the final materials."

There will be no private guards, but security arrangements will be built in, with locks on every door. The 276 units, on 28 acres, will be easier to control than 276 homes, for the Wilmington police.

The hearing was adjourned at 9:56 p.m., but Mr. Gillis insisted on using the microphone afterward. He had just learned, he said, that the board of appeals can decide a 774 question by a majority vote, instead of a unanimous vote as is required in all other decisions. Gillis described this as "shocking."

He described 774 as something that will "wipe out the board of appeals, the planning board, the board of health and the building inspector."

Gillis discussed the parking of 350 cars, and said that this was a density of "four times" and at a minimum it is "doubling traffic."

He reviewed the history of zoning in Wilmington, briefly, since 1955, referring to the battle to have no fifty foot lots, and to keep out speculation.

"We wish to respond to the will of the people, in a plan that has worked for twenty years. Please let us uphold our zoning!"

Bobby Riggs to appear in Reading next week

Bobby Riggs, tennis star, will be the highlight of a super-special evening of super-stars, April 4 (Friday) at 7:30 p.m. at the Reading Memorial High School's Hawkes Field House. With him will be some outstanding players from the Boston Bruins, and from the New England Patriots, for what promises to be an unforgettable program of sports for all ages.

Master of Ceremonies is to be Gary LaPierre, of WBZ and other Greater Boston area radio and TV favorites are to be on hand to participate, on and off the court. There should be a few minutes of serious tennis, arranged by YMCA pro Gil Fernald.

Fun is to be the key word with Bobby Riggs, as he clowns with the other celebrities - and there maybe a few surprises in return.

Tickets are on sale at Winslow's in Reading, and from "Y" board members. There will be a special student price, and adults may choose between a general admission and a sponsor ticket. A sponsor ticket entitles the bearer to not only a reserved seat, but also to a reception following the program, which will be at the Colonial, in Lynnfield.

Now it's starlings

The Town Crier, on March 6, described the action taken to clear the steeple of the Congregational Church of pigeons, and their calling cards.

The action seems to have been successful.

Now about 10,000 starlings have moved into that steeple.

Chairman Gillis says

Clean up the mess at Ainsworth Road!

ALICE PAPALIOLOS TAKES OVER: With Ira Eacker of Boston leaning over one shoulder and Attorney Joe Courtney at the other shoulder. Bob Corey, who says he wants a trout pool, is in the background.

Danny Gillis, the new chairman of the Wilmington Board of Selectmen has bitten off a tough chew. He wants to clean up the mess, at Ainsworth Road. So he declared last Thursday, at a hearing in the Mildred Rogers School, before the Wilmington Conservation Commission.

Things are so bad at Ainsworth Road, that it would take an Urban Renewal, a Wilmington Redevelopment Committee, armed with powers of eminent domain to clear up the mess.

Back in 1961, when the town voted to accept the old Salem & Lowell RR bed as a road no one was worrying in particular about zoning. No one was worrying about ponds and streams. No one was worrying about the width of roads, the way the planning board does today.

If the then town manager had only seen to it that the vote was properly registered in the Registry of Deeds in Lowell, there would have been no problems. Now Mr. Gillis wants to clean it up. He has a tough chew.

The hearing last Thursday was in the old Mildred Rogers School, before the conservation commission. Robert Corey of Lowell, who owns a considerable amount of land between Ainsworth Road and Route 125, was having a hearing for the purpose of developing a trout pool, in one of the pools in the old gravel pit which he acquired about ten years ago.

Attorney Joe Courtney was appearing for Corey. Courtney never got through his opening statement - he didn't get one quarter of the way through it.

Alice Papaliolios took over, and in a few seconds she was running everything. Attorney Courtney went over to watch what Alice was doing. Bob Corey stood back of Courtney where he could watch. Ira Eacker, of Boston, the husband of the lady who has considerable holdings in the area, moved in to tell Mrs. Papaliolios his side of the story.

It was a remarkable exhibition. Mr. Eacker, quietly, but almost in self defense, began to describe the land owned by his wife, and by Insultab, a company long since moved to other communities.

Bob Corey tried to describe the land he owned, and how he wants to dredge it out, so as to have deep water for a trout pool.

Mrs. Papaliolios declared it was "preposterous - really."

With assistance from Courtney, Corey declared that he wanted to put in a trout pool, in the industrially zoned area north of Ainsworth Road, and a place where he could have a place to raise cattle. He intended, he said, to import a lot of loam for the cattle grazing area. He had been in consultation with the Northern Middlesex Conservation District, and among the reasons why he wanted to dig the pool so deep was to get cool water for July and August, for the trout.

Oh yes, Mr. Corey also wanted to put in an industrial park, with an outlet to Route 125, to the northward.

Arthur Bureau, of the Conservation Commission didn't look at Corey. He gazed at the center of the table, and talked about the fish to be found in that pool. Arthur used Latin names, but he was talking about pickerel and trout.

That pool is famous for having the largest pickerel in Wilmington - or it was famous a few years ago. Bureau declared that Corey was going to have to "get rid of the predator fish," and then read a statement about the loam that would be used in connection with cattle farming.

"Oh" said Corey, "that's the lesser use!"

Then began a three corned conversation, or almost a four corned one. Mr. Bureau was talking about a Cease and Desist order that had been issued last November. Mr. Eacker was talking about hard topping for the area. Mr. Corey was talking about how he could spend $50 thousand, but he wasn't going to do it "until I know." Chairman Kulig had a few words to say, so did Mrs. Leahy. Bureau talked about the perimeter of the land that Corey owns.

They were getting nowhere, fast. Gillis suggested to Kulig, "that you people look into this, as deeply as you can." Someone said that "we aren't going to get anywhere tonight."

Courtney finally got a chance to speak. He described the plans of Mr. Corey in "overall development" and "seeking access to Route 125." It would be, he declared "a better overall development, and one for the benefit of the Town of Wilmington. "I think it can be done!"

Alice Papaliolios, "Got to have better plans."

Courtney, "I agree." The plans Mr. Courtney was thinking of had no part with a planning board subdivision - or so it seemed. He said the land was to be developed in a "condominium concept."

Bureau, "What you are going to do is get access to Route 125 only p of unusual significance - you are talking in charades!" It behooves the applicant to submit other plans - no one can say anything in confidence.

Gillis said that what Courtney was proposing was two months work, and would necessitate talking with water commissioners, Insultab, and the town counsel. It would have to be worked out, step by step.

Mr. Courtney withdrew his application, "without prejudice" and Gillis set a date of the 14th of April for a further discussion.

Which possibly was what Corey and Courtney were looking for, instead of a deep trout pool.
